

Sell the System. Don't Explain It. Pitch the Prize.

CD Notes are back, with one big change: both notes in the tray. The booking note is the safety rope. The close note is the prize. Sell the prize.

WHAT'S INSIDE

- 01 The CD Notes system
Three trays, two notes, one prize. Both notes in the tray.
- 02 Explain vs Sell
The mistake that triggered the whole session.
- 03 The ABC mindset
Abundance, Lack, Drift. Three options. Pick A.
- 04 Sell, sell, sell
When in doubt, sell. The maths of asking.
- 05 The Wallace test
Silent belief is not belief. Visible belief wins.
- 06 Sell to your staff
Treat the team like customers. Four questions every week.
- 07 The 300% rule
How much you change to get how much more pay.
- 08 The complacency trap
Why getting to row one is the most dangerous moment.
- 09 Daily reference card
Print and pin. Read every morning.

The CD Notes system.

Three trays. Two notes. One prize. The same system that produced the best month of last year.

TRAY 1THIS WEEK

$25 + $100

Booked meetings + deals to close this week. Mon–Fri stamped on top.

TRAY 2NEXT WEEK

$25 + $100

Bookings for the following week. Every Friday afternoon, reshuffle.

TRAY 3OUTCOMES

$25 + $100

Deal won. Deal lost. Meeting attended. The scoreboard.

COMMISSION ANATOMY — LEAD GEN

$25

Booking note
Meeting attended for 15 min or longer.

Safety rope. Lubrication.

$50

Small close
Deal closes UNDER $500 in margin.

Step 1 of the real prize.

$100

Big close
Deal closes $500 or more in margin.

The trophy. Pitch this.

Explain vs Sell.

Reading the rules of the commission scheme is not selling. The same words, said differently, change what the rep hears.

EXPLAIN · WHAT NOT TO DO

“So, when you book a lead, you get $25. The meeting has to go for at least 15 minutes for it to count. Then if it closes, you get either $50 or $100 depending on the deal value. Any questions?”

WHAT THE REP HEARS:

- “Get them to stay on the call for 15 minutes.”
- “The $25 is what I’m getting paid.”
- “The close is someone else’s job.”
- “This is a $25 game.”

SELL · WHAT TO DO

“Look — there’s a hundred bucks sitting in your tray on every booked lead. I just need you to help me close it. Even if it doesn’t close, there’s a $25 safety rope underneath. But forget the $25 — let’s go 4x. Today.”

WHAT THE REP HEARS:

- “There’s $100 on the table per lead.”
- “My job is to help close it.”
- “The booking is the start, not the finish.”
- “This is a four-figure week if I push.”

THE RULE

Pitch the trophy, not the participation prize. Put BOTH notes in the tray, every time.

The ABC mindset.

Three options. Most people live in B or C. The job is to push uphill to A — and stay there.

ABUNDANCE

Faith that opportunities are everywhere and money is flowing.

- “There’s a way through this.”
- “What can I build next?”
- “Money follows the work.”
- “The market is enormous.”

Requires constant effort.
Against gravity.

LACK

- “They don’t pay me what I’m worth.”
- “The market is dead.”
- “Someone else got lucky.”
- “I’m doing all the work.”

The default when things go wrong.

DRIFT

Comfortable. Floating through. The most dangerous of the three.

- “I’m on a good wicket now.”
- “This is enough for me.”
- “I’ll worry about it later.”
- “No need to push right now.”

Where most senior people end up after early wins.

REMEMBER

Be grateful, but unsatisfied. Always understand abundance is available — and that standing still is going backward.

Sell, sell, sell.

When in doubt: sell. The only rule. To everyone. Everywhere. Every place.

SELL SELL SELL

CUSTOMERS

The obvious one.

STAFF

Every day. About the opportunity.

PEOPLE

At the bar. At the supermarket.

PEERS

The wins. The brand.
The trajectory.

THE MATHS OF ASKING

ASK 10 PEOPLE
 $\approx$ 2 yeses

2 conversations started that didn't exist 5 minutes ago.

ASK 0 PEOPLE
= 0 yeses

The ego protected itself from rejection. Nothing changed. Zero.

Asking is the only variable you control. Ego costs deals.

The Wallace test.

Silent belief is not belief. Visible belief is what moves people.

THE SILENT BELIEVER

Believes privately. Doesn't talk about it. Won't push back when the company gets dismissed. Keeps the faith to themselves.

RESULT:

- The team doesn't know what you believe.
- Reps interpret silence as doubt.
- Recruits never hear about you.
- Income flatlines because nothing compounds.

THE VISIBLE BELIEVER

Like Wallace. Sells the dream of freedom to everyone who'll listen. Tells the team what's possible — 10 times a day, not once a fortnight.

RESULT:

- The team knows where you stand.
- Reps draft off your conviction.
- Recruits arrive pre-sold.
- Income compounds because belief is visible.

THE QUIET-ACHIEVER LOOPHOLE

You don't have to fake high-energy showmanship. Quiet authority carries more weight than loud noise — but quiet doesn't mean silent. Say less, more deliberately, more often. Pick the moment. Lobby with intent.

Sell to your staff.

The most important sales pitch you'll do all week is to the people sitting downstairs.

01

How much do you want to earn this week?

Force a specific number, not a feeling. "Just want to make some money" isn't an answer.

02

What are you saving for? What's the prize?

Anchor to something real — a car, a house deposit, a holiday, a moving-out date.

03

How many deals does that require?

Walk them backward through the commission scheme. The maths is the motivator.

04

Who can you bring in today to hit that?

Activity is the only variable they control. Make that the conversation, daily.

THE WEEKLY TEST

If you can't answer those four questions for each direct report by Friday afternoon, you haven't done the management job this week.

The 300% rule.

Pay rises don't come from working harder at the same job. They come from doing a different job.

NOT 300% MORE HOURS — 300% MORE CAPABILITY

New skills, new responsibilities, more balls in the air. Earning is learning. Learning is earning.

The complacency trap + daily card.

Why getting to row one is the most dangerous moment of your career — and what to read every morning.

THE TRAP

You wanted the car. You got the car. The brain says “mission accomplished” and pulls back. Meanwhile inflation strips real income. Tax rules erode the gain. Competitors don't pause. Everything you have is borrowed — including the position. Stop protecting it and it goes faster.

DO · THIS WEEK

- Put BOTH notes in the tray, every booking.
- Pitch the close — the $25 is the safety rope.
- Ask each rep what they want to earn this week.
- Anchor them to a number and a prize.
- Sell to 3 new people outside work this week.
- Speak up about the company — Wallace mode.

DON'T · THIS WEEK

- Don't explain the scheme — sell it.
- Don't lead with the $25 note.
- Don't accept “just want to earn more” as a goal.
- Don't believe silently — say the words.
- Don't coast on last quarter's results.
- Don't wait for the rep to leave to start hiring.

WATCH-OUTS

- Drifting into mode C (comfortable).
- Working harder instead of working differently.
- Asking 0 people = 0 yeses. Always.
- Protecting what you've got too gently.
- Confusing standing still with stability.
- Forgetting: it's all borrowed.

THE ONE-LINER

The $25 is the safety rope. The $100 is the prize. Sell the prize.
