- 06 Daily reference card

01 · WHAT GETS SKIPPED

The Uncomfortable Period

Not the warm-up to the work. The work itself.

EVERYONE LOVES

- ◆ The finished product
- ◆ The effortless closer
- ◆ The quiet confidence
- ◆ The proven competence

NOBODY TALKS ABOUT

- The clumsy first months
- The hard objections
- The self-doubt
- The period before it clicks

THE INSIGHT

The uncomfortable period IS the work — not the warm-up to it. Skipping it isn't on the table. You either stay in it long enough for it to end, or you leave before the end arrives.

THE CHOICE

Stay long enough → competence arrives. Leave early → it never does.

02 · THE TIMELINE

The 100-Day Rule

When the role starts to feel like breathing.

THE ORDER MOST REPS GET WRONG

Confidence doesn't come first. Competence does. Then repetition. Then experience. Confidence is the RESULT — not the starting point.

WHY THE NUMBER MATTERS

Most quitters leave between day 50 and day 80 — just before the cliff. They lose the entire payback on practice they already did. Mark day 100 in your calendar. Don't make the decision before you reach it.

03 · WHAT ACTUALLY DECIDES

Determination > Intelligence

The pilot's licence proof.

SMART + QUILTSDoctors. Lawyers.

Start flight training. Plenty of intellectual capacity. Then: got busy. Got kids. Couldn't justify it. Drifted out.

→ NEVER GETS THE LICENCE

AVERAGE + REFUSES TO QUITCorie. Pretty much anyone.

8-month stoppage when plane went into workshop. Lost $60k. Lost training routine. Started again from scratch anyway.

→ GETS THE LICENCE

WHAT THE STORY ACTUALLY PROVES

It isn't about flying. It's about determination. Difficult challenges reveal something important — not what you know, not how talented you are, but how determined you are when things stop being fun.

APPLIED TO YOU

Nobody on the floor is being measured on intelligence. They're being measured on whether they'll still be running the process at day 80 with the energy of day 8.

04 · THE CONTRACT

Effort Before Results

What the boss is actually measuring.

WHAT YOU DON'T CONTROL

- ✗ Every prospect
- ✗ Every result
- ✗ Every outcome

WHAT YOU DO CONTROL

- ◆ Your preparation
- ◆ Your attitude
- ◆ Whether you keep showing up

EFFORT YES, RESULTS NO → COACHING

Conversation is about process. What's off, what to adjust. The boss keeps backing you. Pack stays together.

EFFORT NO → DIFFERENT CONVERSATION

The agency rides out bad results. It doesn't ride out someone who's stopped trying.

"I look at effort first. If effort is there, I'll keep backing you. The only time you need to go is when you've stopped trying."

05 · HOW THE TEAM WORKS

Competition + Culture

Done right, both compound.

COMPETITION DONE RIGHT

- ◆ Pushes everyone forward
- ◆ Celebrates teammates' wins
- ◆ Friendly rivalry, real energy
- ◆ Generative — produces more

COMPETITION DONE WRONG

- ✗ Used as a weapon
- ✗ Makes teammates feel smaller
- ✗ Public humbling
- ✗ Corrosive — produces less

CULTURE IS WHAT YOU EXPERIENCE · NOT WHAT'S ON THE WALL

Culture is what happens on Wednesday afternoon when something goes wrong and people watch how it gets handled.

TRUST SUPPORT COMMUNICATION OPPORTUNITY GROWTH

Not created through words. Created through actions repeated consistently over time.

AND JUST LIKE SUCCESS — CULTURE COMPOUNDS

The whole session on one page.

THE PERIOD

- ◆ The uncomfortable period IS the work — not the warm-up.
- ◆ Stay long enough → competence arrives. Leave early → it doesn't.
- ◆ Give yourself the GIFT OF TIME before deciding.

THE NUMBER

- ◆ 100 days minimum. Mark day 100 in your calendar.
- ◆ Competence first. Then repetition. Then experience. Confidence is the RESULT.
- ◆ Most quitters leave day 50-80 — just before the cliff.

THE VARIABLE

- ◆ Determination beats intelligence. Always.
- ◆ Difficulty is the test, not the obstacle.
- ◆ You control preparation, attitude, showing up. Nothing else.

THE TEAM

- ◆ Effort first. Results follow. Don't fake either.
- ◆ Healthy competition pushes forward — never down.
- ◆ Culture is lived, not written. It compounds either way.
