

Dream Like A Child. Execute Like A Wolverine.

Session 37 · Wednesday 17 June 2026 · Marketing Sweet

IN THIS TOOLKIT

- 01 Children dream differently
- 02 The walls are lies
- 03 Dream first · path later
- 04 Predictable excuses + the ghost
- 05 Dream + Execute · the combo
- 06 Daily reference card

01 · WHAT WE LOST

Children Dream Differently

Every achievement starts as an idea before it becomes reality.

ADULT BRAIN · IDEA ARRIVES

- ✗ How would I do that?
- ✗ When could I start?
- ✗ What if it doesn't work?
- ✗ What if I fail?
- ✗ Be realistic.
- ✗ Be practical.
- ✗ Maybe later.

→ THE IDEA DIES

7-YEAR-OLD BRAIN · IDEA ARRIVES

- ◆ Astronaut!
- ◆ Pilot!
- ◆ Business owner!
- ◆ Athlete!
- ◆ Millionaire!
- ◆ (no pre-validation)
- ◆ (no path calculation)

→ THE IDEA LIVES

THE PROBLEM MOST ADULTS DON'T REALISE THEY HAVE

They kept the executor and fired the idea generator. They can do anything they decide to do — they just no longer decide anything big enough to be worth doing. Reactivate the 7-year-old. Let it back into the meeting where the goals get set.

02 · THE REFRAME

The Walls Are Lies

What is now is not what will be.

WHAT THE WALLS SAY

- ✗ "The market is dead."
- ✗ "I'm not qualified."
- ✗ "My commission is capped."
- ✗ "There's no room to grow."
- ✗ "This is just how it is."

WHAT'S ACTUALLY TRUE

Walls describe NOW.

They don't predict the future. They feel solid because you stopped questioning them. They're assumptions, not structural reality.

→ FOLLOW THE DISCIPLINE

The walls have no choice but to change.

CORIE'S EXAMPLE

His childhood bedroom was his parents' lounge room — that was what the walls told him about his future. Three decades later the walls are very different. The walls weren't lying then; they just weren't predictive.

YOUR MOVE

Name the wall you're treating as truth. Write it down. Underneath, write: "This describes now. It doesn't predict the future."

03 · REVERSE THE PROCESS

Dream First. Path Later.

It's none of your business how you get there.

WRONG ORDER · PATH FIRST

"What's possible from where I am right now?" → small destination → small life

The planning approach optimises for staying exactly where you are. Reps who start with "how?" before "where?" keep ending up exactly where they already are — because that's what "how from here?" produces.

RIGHT ORDER · DESTINATION FIRST

"Where do I want to be?" → let it be vivid → work backwards → bigger life

Allow yourself to imagine the destination first. Let it be specific. Let it sit in your head long enough to become real. THEN start solving problems one at a time. Don't demand to see steps 2-20 before you take step 1.

IT'S NONE OF YOUR BUSINESS HOW YOU GET THERE

The path doesn't appear all at once. It appears in 5-foot sections as you walk forward. Stopping until the whole path is visible is how reps stay exactly where they are for the rest of their lives.

04 · PREDICTABLE VISITORS

Excuses + the Ghost

Both arrive on schedule. Both can be expected.

THE EXCUSES · SAME ONES, SAME ORDER, EVERYONE

- Maybe you're not smart enough.
- Maybe you're too old.
- Maybe you're too young.
- Maybe you're too busy.
- Maybe it's too difficult.
- Maybe it isn't worth it.

THE QUESTION ISN'T WHETHER THE EXCUSES ARRIVE.

They will. The question is whether you believe them.

THE GHOST · EXPECT IT

The voice that arrives mid-pursuit. "Stop." "It won't work." "Lower your expectations." Usually arrives with perfect timing — just before the breakthrough.

THE DISCIPLINE

Expect it. Don't be surprised. Don't argue (arguing keeps it in the room). Notice it. Three words: "That's the ghost." Then keep going. The ghost loses its power the moment it stops being a surprise.

05 · THE CENTRAL IMAGE

Dream + Execute

Both halves required. Neither half alone produces the life.

THE 7-YEAR-OLDPicks the destination

Without filter. Without pre-validation.
Without the protective questions adults add to kill ideas before they form.

ALONE PRODUCES:

Half-finished dreams. Exciting starts that fade when the work gets hard. Imagination without action = fantasy.

imaginationTHE WOLVERINE*Handles the execution

Relentless. Refuses to die on the way.
Treats every obstacle as something to grind through, not reconsider.

ALONE PRODUCES:

Grinding competence applied to nothing worth the effort. Action without imagination = routine.

executionCOMBINED*imagination + execution = the life

The 7-year-old picks the destination. The Wolverine handles the journey. Reserve time for both halves.

REFERENCE

Daily Card · Keep By the Phone

The whole session on one page.

THE DREAM

- ◆ Children dream without filter. Adults pre-validate ideas to death.
- ◆ Reactivate the 7-year-old. Let it pick the destination.
- ◆ Every achievement starts as an idea before it becomes reality.

THE WALLS

- ◆ The walls are lies. They describe NOW — not the future.
- ◆ Name the wall you're treating as truth. Write it down.
- ◆ Then write underneath: "This doesn't predict the future."

THE ORDER

- ◆ Dream FIRST. Work out the path LATER.
- ◆ It's none of your business how you get there.
- ◆ The path appears in 5-foot sections as you walk forward.

THE OBSTACLES

- ◆ Excuses arrive on schedule. Same order. Every time.
- ◆ The ghost is predictable. Name it. Keep going.
- ◆ Don't decide whether you'll enjoy it before you've earned the right.

DREAM LIKE A CHILD · EXECUTE LIKE A WOLVERINE · BUILD A FUTURE BIGGER THAN THE LIMITS